DAZN, the world's leading sports entertainment platform, is the exclusive global production and broadcast partner of World Sevens Football for their second-ever football tournament. The groundbreaking seven-a-side series that is revolutionising professional women's football, will hold the tournament in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, U.S. from December 5-7.

DAZN is the exclusive global broadcaster for the event, as part of its ongoing multi-event partnership with World Sevens Football. DAZN is committed to increasing accessibility and visibility for emerging formats of the sport, and will make every match available to watch live and free on the DAZN platform globally, as well as on the DAZN Women's Football YouTube channel in all eligible markets.

DAZN will serve as host broadcaster, providing full production of all 16 matches. Leveraging its industry-leading capabilities in live sports production, multi-platform delivery and digital distribution, DAZN will help elevate the viewing experience for this fast-growing global football format.

DAZN's coverage will feature an exceptional team of on-screen talent:

- Current Women's Football Broadcaster of the Year Seema Jaswal will present the live coverage alongside special guest, former Scottish Captain Jen Beattie MBE.
- Expert analysis will be given by former US Internationals and NWSL veterans Jordan Angeli, Kacey White and Darian Jenkins, and former Columbian International Chelsea Cabarcas, while Jenny Chiu will act as DAZN's pitchside reporter.
- Jacqui Oatley MBE and Jessica Charman will serve as lead commentators, with Moises Linares set to provide insights for the Spanish-language feed.
- Members of the World Sevens Football Player Advisory Council will also share their views on-screen, ensuring fans receive diverse and authoritative perspectives throughout the event.

Shay Segev, DAZN Group CEO, said: "DAZN's global scale and digital-first distribution strategy make us uniquely positioned to deliver this World Sevens Football tournament to fans around the world. With our platform available in more than 200 markets and our ability to offer this tournament free-to-view, DAZN is playing a central role in bringing this innovative format to the widest possible audience. As the exclusive global production and broadcast partner of World Sevens Football, our international reach is helping to accelerate the growth of women's football worldwide."

Sarah Cummins, CEO of World Sevens Football, said: "We're thrilled to continue our partnership with DAZN as the global production and broadcast partner for World Sevens Football. Their commitment to accessibility and innovation ensures fans can experience this dynamic seven-a-side format, live and free, around the world. Together, we will showcase the skills and intensity of the women's game, creating a platform that inspires players and fans globally."

TNT has been confirmed as the co-exclusive sublicensee partner in the U.S., along with Univision for Spanish-language in the U.S. and Mexico, and ESPN throughout LATAM, Central America, and the Caribbean (excluding Mexico).
