NWSL CLUBS TO COMPETE IN FIRST-EVER NORTH AMERICAN WORLD SEVENS FOOTBALL TOURNAMENT

Kansas City Current and San Diego Wave FC to face off against powerhouse teams from across the Americas in high stakes, 7v7 showcase

NEW YORK — October 28, 2025 — World Sevens Football (W7F) proudly announces that it will be welcoming two National Women's Soccer League (NWSL) teams to its inaugural North American edition with the Kansas City Current and San Diego Wave FC representing the league in the tournament, which will take place December 5–7, 2025, in Fort Lauderdale, Florida at Beyond Bancard Field.

Joining Canada's AFC Toronto, Mexico's Club América and Tigres Femenil, Brazil's Clube de Regatas do Flamengo, and Colombia's Deportivo Cali Femenino, these elite teams will come together for a global showcase of elite women's football talent in a 7v7 format. The event will unite top clubs from across the Americas, create more playing opportunities, and deliver one of the most significant prize pools in women's football.

Sarah Cummins, CEO of W7F:

"We are thrilled to welcome the Kansas City Current and San Diego Wave FC to our exhilarating 7v7 tournament, where they will compete against top clubs from across the Americas. This high-stakes competition showcases the talent and ambition fueling the women's game today. We know the fans will come out and cheer on these world-class teams as they compete for the title and a significant prize, reflecting our ongoing commitment to creating opportunities that reward excellence and elevate women's football on the global stage."

Kansas City Current — Kansas City, Missouri

Kansas City Current is one of the league's fastest-rising franchises, with owners Angie and Chris Long at the helm. Their visionary leadership has transformed player and fan experience, recently opening CPKC Stadium, the first stadium in the world purpose-built for a women's professional team, and breaking records in the process. With an elite attack and stalwart defense, the Kansas City Current locked up the 2025 NWSL Shield and will take the No. 1 seed into the postseason. The Current is led by international stars like Malawian Temwa Chawinga, the 2024 NWSL MVP and Golden Boot winner and a 2025 Ballon d'Or nominee, and the Brazilian National Team trio of Debinha, Lorena, and Bia Zaneratto. Strong U.S. National talents Michelle Cooper, Claire Hutton, Ally Sentnor, and Lo'eau LaBonta give the Current a potent combination of experience and firepower.

Milan Ivanovic, Assistant Coach, Kansas City Current:

"Our team thrives on intensity, creativity, and competition, which fit perfectly with the 7v7 style of play. This tournament is an incredible opportunity for our players to test themselves against some of the world's best in a dynamic, fast-paced environment. We're proud to represent Kansas City and the NWSL on the international stage and to continue pushing the women's game forward. The growth of women's football is accelerating globally, and events like World Sevens Football help showcase the skill and excitement that define our sport. We can't wait to bring the KC Current energy to Fort Lauderdale."

San Diego Wave FC — San Diego, California

Wave FC has rapidly established itself atop US women's soccer, with community fan support and world-class talent. Led by Sporting Director and General Manager Camille Ashton, the Wave continue their pursuit of silverware and make their Sevens debut with high ambitions. The club's roster features several international stars, including Delphine Cascarino (forward), Kenza Dali (midfielder), and standout goalkeeper Kailen Sheridan, as well as dynamic talents like Adriana Leon and young U-18 forward Melanie Barcenas. Cascarino, in particular, was named to the NWSL Best XI earlier in the season and leads the Wave in goal contributions, while Dali is known for her playmaking and set-piece prowess.

Camille Ashton, General Manager, San Diego Wave FC:

"I am honored for San Diego Wave FC to represent the National Women's Soccer League on this global stage. Our club's vision is rooted in excellence, and we embrace opportunities like World Sevens Football to push the game further and give our players another opportunity to shine. We are grateful to be invited, and we cannot wait to share this experience with our fans, challenge ourselves, and compete among some of the world's best."

Tournament Details

The World Sevens Football tournament will feature fast-paced 7v7 matches, a $5 million prize pool—one of the largest in women's football—and a broadcast partnership with DAZN. With Kansas City Current and San Diego Wave FC now joining the international lineup, fans can expect fierce competition and unforgettable moments.
